Lean-to conservatory

Flat angled roof that slopes outwards makes the lean-to conservatory suitable for spaces with height restrictions.

The simplicity in the design means lean-to conservatories are great value for money.

Victorian conservatory

Ornate detail top options, pitched roof and bay front make Victorian conservatories a popular option for many people. The angled bay front creates softer protrusions from the house compared to a flat front conservatory.

Edwardian conservatory

Symmetrical build, clean lines and 3 sides hipped roof with ornate ridge detail on top. Very stylish conservatory for you to enjoy all year round.

Gable conservatory

Influenced by Georgian styles, the structured appearance with its symmetrical structure, pitched roof, ornate detail and flat vertical front gives the gable conservatory impact and grandeur.

Many homeowners opt for decorative glass features on the panel above the doors, with a sun-rise being the most popular.

Custom conservatory

Often referred to as a P, L or combination conservatory, you can mix existing structures to create a truly unique space. If you have a larger garden and want more liveable space – a custom conservatory is a great choice.

Gable L-shape custom conservatory

Create amazing spaces

Orangeries

Open up your extension to natural light with an orangery which has a roof that is around 50% glass.

Completely bespoke orangeries

While traditional extensions can feel boxed-in and a conservatory too over-exposed, an orangery/ skyroom has the perfect balance. Open airy space with solid bricked walls and luxury touches throughout.

Construction is done as a standard insulated extension however bi-fold doors (see page 14), roof lanterns (see page 23) are added to flood the space with natural light.

We manage the whole project from start to finish to ensure the installation meets building regulations and more important your expectations.

Light fitting/switches, plug sockets, radiators can also be installed to ensure your new space is ready for you.

Skyroom is identical to an orangery but has an all glass roof

As well as the lifestyle benefits of getting a new extension, you can also enjoy up to 11% increase to your house¹ value, which is a great return on investment as our prices start from £24,999²

Stargaze in style

Roof lantern

No orangery or extension is complete without a sky view created by a roof lantern. This popular choice is a modern way of adding character and style.

Slimmer profile means uninterrupted views

Our unique system design is durable, light and has a 40mm aluminium frame. Rafters create slim, elegant roof profiles with excellent thermal performance. Compared to conventional roofs sold by our competitors. Our roof lanterns reduce the visible width and sight lines of rafters by 30% and the main internal feature ridge by 70%.

Where to start?

Converting an existing flat roof with a stylish roof lantern couldn't be easier with our hassle-free service. One of our friendly surveyors will visit the property to take measurements and ensure the building can bear the load of a lantern.

Quality designed to last

Aluminium

Benefit from a superior material

◀ Frames can be any colour of your choice

Modern aluminium products offer superior quality over uPVC and is fast becoming the material of choice for home improvements.

- The efficiency of thermal performance in aluminium is comparatively higher than timber or uPVC.
- Aluminium windows do not swell, crack, split or warp over time ensuring an extended product life.
- Weather resistant under a range of severe environmental conditions.
- Aluminium is 3 times stronger than uPVC and 4.3 times stronger than wood.
- Highest recycling rates compared to any other metal. The recycling process of aluminium requires just 5% of initial energy.

45 years lifespan

Aluminium products are expected to have a life expectancy of 45 years¹ if maintained.

1) <https://www.hedgehogaluminium.com/advice-posts/how-long-will-my-aluminium-windows-last/s5444/>

When innovation meets elegance

Aluminium is naturally stronger than uPVC and does not need reinforcements which allows for smaller profiles. Its strength also accommodates larger glass panels giving you a increased uninterrupted vista.

Latest technology saving you money

Solar panels

Installing solar panels is the smart way of powering your home. Harness the energy of day light throughout the year.

How it works

Innovation in solar panel development and an increase in demand means it has never been cheaper to install state-of-the-art equipment which would fuel a significant amount of your homes electrical needs.

The system is seamlessly integrated directly into your homes electrical network, which will power your appliances and devices throughout the year.

When your solar panels produce more power than you require, the excess is diverted to the grid.

At times where you're using more power than producing, the system will use the extra power off the grid. This switching of sources ensures you are constantly maximising your solar panels potential.

You will also be paid an index-linked tax-free sum every quarter, transferred to your bank account for 20 years for the grid being able to use your excess power.

Installing a solar panel system not only saves you money on your electricity bill but allows you to use greener cleaner energy for your everyday needs.

Great service from start to finish! Really happy with the whole process of buying new windows. Pat who came to do the quote was friendly and not pushy at all. All sales team have been great and Mark and Steve fitting is brilliant even if they are freezing in the snow! New windows look great and great soundproofing! Thanks Polar Bear team"

D. Bindon

Absolutely spot on from the start to finish."

A. Schlegelmilch

They were competitively priced. The team on the job were polite and professional. They consulted me when there was an opportunity to change how the external canopy above the doors was going to be supported which resulted in a much better end design. They were tidy, on time and have done a fantastic job!"

The green polar bear

Green principles in action

We have implemented various processes in an effort to reduce the amount of strain we, as a business, have on the environment. We recycle as much waste as possible and source products from accredited suppliers, who share our passion for working sustainably.

uPVC products

We use 100% recycled materials in our uPVC thermal inserts, which are in turn 100% recyclable. The PVC is cut and ground down into granules which are in turn manufactured into other plastic products. Plus all our components are manufactured to the ISO14001 environmental performance standard.

All our windows, doors and conservatories have excellent thermal performance to reduce heat loss. Which will help to lower energy bills and is better for the environment as you will use less energy to warm your home.

Aluminium products

Highest recycling rates compared to any other metal. The recycling process of aluminium requires just 5% of initial energy.

The efficiency of thermal performance in aluminium is comparatively higher than timber or uPVC and is more durable which ensures a longer product lifespan and in turn means less waste.
